Long Bio – (200 words)

Teresa Beeman is committed to helping others live their lives on their own terms by improving communications, narrowing their focus and defining what is really of utmost importance to them. Her philosophy is that people who learn to communicate their ideas effectively can see more of their dreams come true.

Effectively communicating ideas leads to expanded thought processes, bigger, better, brighter ideas and accomplishments beyond all expectations.

Teresa is a recognized authority on helping entrepreneurs with business-building, growth and telling the world about what their business does. She teaches methods for incubating ideas, conquering fears and creating workable plans to achieve ultimate goals. In addition, she teaches how to master memory skills that can be used as an additional asset in the entrepreneur's business-building toolkit.

As a creative strategist, business owners, entrepreneurs and authors have turned to Teresa to engage her knowledge, skills strategies and techniques to turn their ideas into profitable and fulfilling enterprises.

Teresa has earned the nickname of "Project Lady" because she keeps a list of project ideas – any of which have the potential to become her next entrepreneurial venture, book or speaking topic. Her online visibility has created a vast wealth of connections and she teaches others how to make those connections as well.
